

Delano Joint Union High School District

Future Business Leaders of America is only one of the many club opportunities that DJUHSD offers. The schools offer staff that encourages students to be a part of clubs on campus. The staff is committed to supporting by transporting students, attending activities, providing materials and food for the students so they can attend events outside of the small community of Delano. Students are motivated to do their best – it's Delano pride. This results in positive academics and promotes successful college and careers.

The District and school websites tout all departments and awards – whether it is for an individual or a group. The awards range from FFA, to Cheer, music, sports, and Distinguished Schools. This allows parents and students to celebrate each other while celebrating the awards produced by their students. This makes each student want to work harder to promote the school, district, and sometimes themselves.

PLCs are unique in a high school setting with departments and grade levels so varied. The structure include articulation of grade levels and departments so that integration of subject matter just doesn't stop at the door of the ELA classroom.
